Historie

"The Man of Many Masks", a title bestowed upon Cheshire while in the circus, was about the only thing he cherished about being in the circus. If he was fully honest with himself he loathed each and every person or thing in that freak show. Running away from home to join the circus is possibly the dumbest and most dangerous thing a young person can do, those who ended up dead were the lucky ones in his opinion. Freaks of humanity making fun of freak of nature, that was the idea that was used to sum up the show. Making fun of the horrors that our elders told stories of, seemed a bit much coming from people who were seen as the heel of society. Faits marquants : Once a successful ring leader for a traveling circus now has settled down for the time being to tend to his ill-stricken mother. While she does not appear to be terminal she is bed ridden. Local doctors are unable to diagnose what this could possibly be. Cheshire is constantly on the look out for leads to a cure, whether it's modern medicine or something a bit more mystical, a lead is still a lead. Typically a loner, Cheshire will travel with a group if he finds it beneficial for him. Should the group ever stay away from his end goal he has no problem with heading seperate ways(...)
